FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 4, 1859.

Whoever has read the Waverly, must recollect the graphic description of the battle of Preston Pans, in which Col. Gardiners, the commander of Gardiner's Dragoons, was killed, whitst fighting at the head of a small band of foot soldiers, who were making a stand after having been deserted by almost their whole regiment. The Philadelphia Bulletin says:

Philadelphia Bulletin says:

We had the opportunity, to day, of seeing the pistois of Colonel Gardiner. They were taken from his dead body after the battle of Preston Pans, by a Highlander, who sold them to a "eritist" or attached, the seeing the pistois of Colonel Rev. Assumants were, of Edinburgh, Mr. James Weyrs. This grandson, the Rev. Assumants Weyrs, of Social Carolins, presented them through the Rev. Dr. Beyenton, of this city, to the Presbyterian Historical Society, and they are thus open to public inspection. There is no doubt whatever of their authoriseity.—They come, it will be observed, through but two hands from the original purchaser. They are upwards of two feet long, with the common flunt lock, and in excellent preservation. They have been charistand with even religious veneration: for, in addition to every other motive, Mr. Weyver's family were of the same church with Colonel Gardiners.

Superior Court.

How Hove sold Baker a Bakery.—Benjamin P. Hove vs. James H. Searing.—This was an action to restrain the defendant from the use of the plaintiff in 1808, assigned to Baker for the sum of $1.308, the establishment known as "Howe's Bakery," at the place named in Broadway, who afterwards angigned to the defendant, who still continues to use the name of the plaintiff on his building, wagous, cards, de.

The answer acknowledges the use of the name of the plaintiff on his building, wagous, cards, de.

The answer acknowledges the use of the name of Hows, but averred that it was also used by Socker, whose assigns, by the assignment of the plaintiff to Baker, had the same right to the name of "good will" of the establishment, which was granted to Baker himself.

It will be remembered that the bakery in question is one of the most celebrated of New York bakeries, and before assigning it, the plaintiff, (as he testified on the trial) made $50 000 per annum cut of it, and acquired an independent fortune:

Howe has since gone into the baking business again, and now brings this suit as stated above. It was brought before Justice Hoffman in June last, who granted the injunction restraining the defendant from the use of the plaintiff's name.

The case was then appealed, and was now argued before the General Term. Decision reserved.

Supreme Court.

The old Police Cases.—The People on the relation of Patrick Murphy vs. The Board of Metropolitan Police.—This is the first of the notorious "police cases" which, as yet, has come before the Circuit for trial on the facts of the case, and is regarded as a test case—one on which the rest will be disposed of. The Police Commissioners have employed the following eminent counsel in the onser Wm. Brown, A. Oakey Hell and A. J. Vanderpoet as Attorneys, and David Dudley Field, William M. Esparts and William Curtis Noyes, as Counsel.

The fact row in issue is whether or not the plaintiff was a patrolman of the city police at the time of the passage of the Metropolitan Police Act.

As so little time remained of the present term the trial was postponed to the second Menday of Revember.

Suit on a Promissory Note—Amon L. Scottle trial was postponed to the second Menday of Morember.

Suit on a' Promissory Note —Amon L. Scoulle et al., vs. Adolphus Ronney et al.—This was an action on a promissory note for $52750. The complaint alleged that the rote was made by defendant to the order of G. W. Grossmon, and by him endowned and transferred to the firm of Grossmon & Wibtet, and by them assigned to plaintiff as their general assigne for the benefit of creditors.

The defence was that the note was accommodation paper, and that the only consideration received for it was an exchange note of no value whatever. That emericary note was put in as a ret-off. It appeared that in 1856, a certain printing business was conducted by E. N. Grossmon, but it was disputed that it was a partnership business; that when the note was protested, Grossmon & Witter made partial paintiff, who brought this suit. Mr. Abbett, for the defendants, contended that the exchange note was a sufficient set off, and Mr. Miller opposed the proposition. The Court instructed the jury that the note must be considered as a set off, and the jury therefore found a vericit for the defendants.

The Union Ferry Case,—Sevena Ferric vs. the therefore found a verdict for the defendants.

The Union Ferry Case.—Sevena Ferric vs. the Union Ferry Company.—This action was tried last Union Ferry Company.—This action was tried last June before Ju-tice Hegeboom, who refused to enter a nonsuit as asked by the defendant's councel. The jury subsequently found $400 for the plaint ff.

The defendant is a fruit dealer in Washington Market. She complains that she was on her way over the Brookly's on the first of Sept., 1856, and by reason of the nigligence of the Company, or its agents, the beat was not fastened to the landing, and in consequence she get her leg between the boat and the case is not fastened to the landing, and in consequence she get her leg between the boat and the defendant now applied for a new trial on a bill of exceptions. After argument, decision reserved.

It is alleged, that about a year ago, the brig sailed to the coast of Africa, where she took in a cargo of alaves for the Island of Cuba, and then, for a ruse, sailed for Com-
